

BRITAIN OUT OF CONTROL

THE SOCCER RIOT in Belgium which resulted in 38 deaths was not solely the fault of British fans; evidence emerging from the catastrophe shows that some of the supporters of Juventus FC went to the match with the deliberate intention of provoking trouble. One of them unfurled a large banner insulting their Liverpool counterparts, a banner obviously made well before the game. And many onlookers have testified that the attack by Liverpool fans on their opposite numbers was first sparked off by the sight of a very young Liverpool supporter lying on the ground being viciously kicked by Italians.

DISGUSTING RABBLE

Nevertheless, when all this is said and done there can be no doubt that a large number of British yobboes, by no means all of them from Liverpool, went to Belgium behaving like a disgusting rabble, getting drunk before they had been long on the boat, marauding through Belgian streets insulting passers by, damaging property, thieving and brawling. When they finally got to the match they were spoiling for a fight and needed little inducement to get into one. They cannot have known of course that their charge across the terraces at Italian supporters would lead to the breaking of a barrier and people getting killed in the stampede, but that in no way excuses their behaviour. They are a disgrace to football and a disgrace to Britain.

Why does this country, in particular, produce so many of these animals who regularly go abroad besmirching its name?

National leaders in many fields are urgently debating this very question right now. Many of them have said that football hooligans are the products of a sick society. We would agree with them on this, but in what way is our society sick?

Some blame unemployment and urban deprivation, but we do not think this an answer. Most of the Liverpool fans who were involved in the Brussels riot were employed. They were not short of money or they would not have been able to afford the trip to Belgium.

LACK OF DISCIPLINE

Much closer to the mark are those who blame the lack of national discipline. With these people we agree, but where does the fault lie for this? Why, it lies with the very political and social system within which these hooligans grew up and live. Almost from the cradle they live in an atmosphere of 'liberalism' in which there is no authority in their lives, no order, no example, no leadership. If it does not start in the home, which it often does, then it certainly starts in school. The British youngster is 'taught' by weak and sloppy teachers, themselves largely the products of trendy, lefty universities and teachers' training colleges. In after-school hours he has little to do: he is not organised so that he may spend his spare time usefully; he is without leadership or guidance; he is left to drift around the streets, into the coffee bars and the discos, where he wastes away his time. He is not taught pride, either in self, town, county, region or country. At a time when it is desirable that all young men are subjected to military training no such institution exists to provide this in Britain. At a crucial age when youngsters need the strong hand of discipline to steady them in the process of reaching towards adulthood, no such strong hand is there.

Simultaneously to this, youngsters are deprived of any sense of identity. While in our grandfathers' days they were brought up to be proud to be British, now all they are ever taught is national self-guilt and shame. In any event British nationality has ceased to have any meaning to them, as it is conferred easily on any Tom, Dick or Harry who happens to slip into this country under our slack immigration laws and thereafter on all of the droves of children he cares to breed within our shores. Little wonder that when such youngsters go abroad they are not conscious of being ambassadors for a nation with a proud and glorious tradition to maintain, but instead feel free to behave like the scum of the earth.

INFLUENCE OF MEDIA

Along with all these influences, or lack of them, there is the influence of the mass media — 'predominantly in the hands of aliens, liberals, leftists, permissives, porn peddlers and simple ruthless profiteers. To the extent that citizens today are moulded by the mass media — and the extent is very great — that moulding process in Britain has appalling consequences, for it produces legions of the very kind of moron that went berserk in Brussels and dragged Britain's name through the mud.

It is all very well for Mrs. Thatcher, her government ministers and the members of HM Opposition parties to throw up their hands in horror at what happened in Brussels, issue pious condemnations and pass resolutions to 'do something'. The fact is that what happened, and the human garbage that made it happen, are the products of their system, their world, the institutions and values that they defend.

They have done nothing to change this system or its institutions and values — and they will not.

For the British sickness, of which the Brussels football mobsters are a part, is a sickness of which they in a different way are also equally a part. It is the sickness of internationalist, multi-racialist, leaderless liberal-democracy.

That system is the real guilty party for the mayhem and murder of Brussels, for the national shame and humiliation that followed and for the contemptible light in which Britain appears in the modern world.

MORE 'HOLOCAUST' HOGWASH

OVER THE LAST TWO MONTHS we have seen an outpouring of propaganda about World War II. First there was the publicity over "VE Day". Then there was the furore artificially contrived by the mass media over Princess Michael's father having fought in the élite wartime German fighting-force of the SS. The final piece of humbug was the shouting against President Reagan's visit to the graves of some of Germany's war dead at Bitburg, proposed as a symbol of reconciliation with a nation that is now supposed to be an ally against a common enemy of the West. All this seems to have had the ultimate purpose of giving the Jews yet another occasion for screaming and howling at us about their so-called "Holocaust" in World War II.

In recent years Jewish claims that the Germans operated "gas chambers", in which "six million Jews" were done to death as part of a planned extermination, have been brought seriously into question. A number of reputable scholars and courageous publicists worldwide have analysed and exposed the falsity of such claims, often in face of intimidation from the powerful Jewish elements in their countries. No credible witness has ever testified to the existence of "gas chambers" capable of killing people efficiently — let alone by the millions! There are few population statistics for Jews in Europe before or after the War, and certainly none which would allow for the deaths of six million. It is a fact which no historian (Jewish or otherwise) denies that, in all the captured documents of the Third Reich, there is not one single order from Hitler or anyone else for the killing of any Jews because of their race.

The Jews themselves have certainly never been required to furnish one shred of evidence that would suffice in any properly conducted court of law to prove the charge of genocide which they have been making non-stop since 1945. The disgraceful and dishonourable "trials" of Germany's leaders by the "democratic" victors (including the Russian communists!) before a kangaroo-court at Nuremberg after the war violated just about every principle of British and western legal procedure and, as a result, "proved" absolutely nothing, except perhaps the viciousness of "liberal-democratic" governments acting in Jewish interests. Since then the Jews have several times been forced to revise earlier claims to take account of the exposure of the falsehoods they contain so that the current version of the "Holocaust" differs substantially from that of forty years ago.

For forty years, then, we have been fed with lies, forced into our consciousness by the mass media, day-in, day-out. It is high time we British woke our ideas up and started asking why and what possible good all this can do us. In view of our own terrible present-day problems the alleged sufferings of the Jews on the continent of Europe 40 or 50 years ago would seem to be at least totally irrelevant to us, and the fact that so much of

CURRENCY SPECULATORS HIT BRITAIN'S ECONOMY

IN RECENT MONTHS the value of a number of national currencies has been fluctuating on money markets in ways which seriously threaten the wellbeing of the western nations, notably Britain. The pound has fallen catastrophically in value against the dollar, which has risen to unprecedented heights. Contrary to the song which establishment politicians sing, this has been neither good for Britain nor the product of chance.

Thanks to successive British governments' policy of tying Britain to a system of unfettered free trade, our own national economy is particularly vulnerable to this process. Our home market has been thrown wide open to the competition of foreign goods, particularly from Japan and south-east Asia, which has devastated our own industries and created mass unemployment. Our own firms, deprived of a secure domestic market, are compelled to grub for business in export markets where our more nationalist-minded competitors already have the advantage.

To make matters worse, these markets are critically affected by fluctuations in the value of currencies in relation to one another, brought about by the speculative activities of international financiers. For, at the centre of this world trade jungle lies the organised network of this cosmopolitan financial fraternity.

The Tories, servile front-men for these international parasites, have claimed that the fall in sterling will do the British economy good by making our goods cheaper in terms of their purchasers' currencies. This is moonshine.

HOW TRADE SUFFERS

Cheaper exports require an increased volume of sales to balance the lower price of each article sold. Thanks to the free trade policies of this and previous governments, Britain no longer produces many of the component parts which go into these export-products. The prices of these components, which have to be imported, increases as the value of the pound declines, so that export-goods get dearer to produce. In the end there is no export boom.

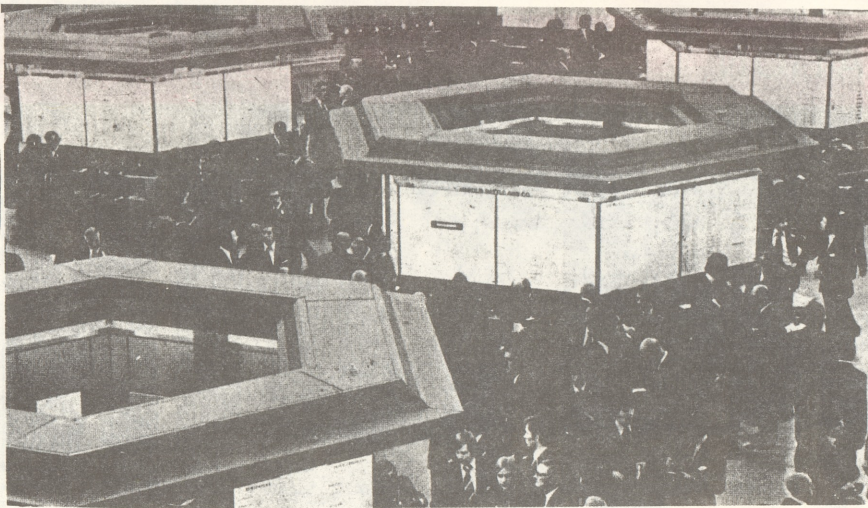

Meanwhile British industry gains nothing in the home market from the higher cost of imported passenger aircraft, transistors, motor cycles and so forth, since the economic internationalism practised by one government after another, to whose dogmas all our present established political parties subscribe, has led to the virtual disappearance of Britain's manufacturing capacity in these fields. In many cases there are no British firms left to take advantage of the high price of imported products.

PARASITICAL FORCE

This state of affairs has been deliberately created by the sharks of international finance-capitalism. Operating as an organised parasitical force on an international scale, these financial monopolists can cripple national economies by speculation. Buying-and-selling-sprees with currencies cause their values to rise and fall at enormous profit to the speculator, and enormous damage to the workers and producers of the various nations.

Thus, in apparent violation of basic economic laws which insist that a country like the United States, with declining exports and monstrous balance of payments and budget deficits, should have a weak currency, the dollar has, on the contrary, attained its high level due solely to such speculation. In step with this, huge quantities of sterling have been sold on international markets, to be bought up by the financial racketeers against the time when a rise in the pound's value will produce immense profits.

In addition, the cheap pound has enabled the same racketeers, with their hoards of over-valued dollars, to buy British firms at knock-down prices, thereby gaining control of considerable assets and giving ownership of even more of what is left of our industries to foreigners, most of whom are no friends of the British people. Whilst Tory politicians, many in cahoots with these alien interests, yap their glee at how wonderful this is for Britain millions of British jobs are now at the mercy of international monopolists, who can transfer their operations at the stroke of a pen to the far ends of the earth as investment decisions in foreign boardrooms lead to transfers of capital overseas.

International finance undertakes these vast manoeuvres as part of its drive for world-power. Its speculative activities constantly threaten to bring global economic chaos, perhaps on the scale of the 1929 crash which, apart from throwing millions out of work, saw the concentration of huge quantities of real wealth — land, businesses, equities, property — in the hands of the international banking fraternity. All this constitutes the attack at the economic level on the sovereignty of the western nations, including Britain. We Britons are to be submerged as slaves in a tyrannical one-world system. The "new international economic order", which is to be brought about by financial chaos, is to parallel the concentration of political power in the hands of the United Nations.

THE SOLUTION

As nationalists we shall require that the national economy be organised to resist this process and to support the sovereign nation against the international system. Investment must be directed into building up our own industrial base, creating work for our own people, and making us, as far as possible, self-sufficient. British industry must be under the ownership of Britons. Unrestricted foreign competition in our home market must be eliminated. International trade must be conducted on the basis of national need, with countries capable of supplying the commodities we do not ourselves possess in exchange for our industrial surplus. Britain can thus insulate herself against economic subversion by the international financial parasite.

Costly chaos in multi-racial Britain lasted 28 HOURS, replied: "I didn't at any time attempt to waste time in this court."

Another case in which a coloured woman took to howling about "racial abuse" as a means of putting one over on the courts and the police, involved police investigation into her claims costing several thousand pounds. The woman, Jacqueline Berkeley, lied about being raped in a police cell and was found guilty by magistrates of wasting police time, assaulting three policewomen, threatening behaviour and damaging police property.

Berkeley had been arrested after a street disturbance in the heavily coloured and very violent neighbourhood of Moss Side, Manchester. She was taken to Greenheys Police Station, one of the targets of the 1981 race riots, where she later claimed to have been "racially abused" and beaten up, then assaulted by two policemen while two policewomen held her down.

The police had then undertaken the ludicrous charade of investigating these outrageous claims, at great expense to the taxpaying public.

THREAT AGAINST COURT

The presiding magistrate told Berkeley, whose solicitor is considering an appeal, that she deserved to lose her liberty. But he suspended her three-month prison sentence. Outside the court building a threatening demonstration by 50 members of the so-called "Jackie Berkeley Defence Committee" took place as the case was heard.

In a third instance illustrating the madness of multi-racial Britain, the first black leader of a local council, Guyanese Bernie Grant, is facing a charge of causing actual bodily harm to an Asian colleague. He was committed for trial on the same day as becoming Leader of Haringey Council, North London.

The alleged assault, which he denies, is said to have taken place against an Asian "welfare rights worker", Gulam Mayete, during a meeting at a publicly-funded GLCowned meeting place for ethnic minorities of an organisation called the Black Trade Unionists' Solidarity Movement. This publicly-funded exercise in black racism ended with the Asian suffering bruises to his back and neck, and being taken for treatment to King's College Hospital.

Both Mayete and Grant hold "race relations" posts. Grant works in Newham Council's Housing Department as a Race Relations Adviser at a salary of £10,000 per year.

EXPENSIVE FARCE

This whole black farce demonstrates in its own small way how the British people are being made to pay and pay again for the multi-racial bedlam that is gradually engulfing us.

GRANT Assaulted Asian

First Britons are made to pay in rates and taxes for a vast structure of pro-black and black-run organisations totally hostile to themselves, and designed to extort yet more money and privileges at their expense. Then they must foot the law-and-order bill, with costly court proceedings, as a result of these organisations' degenerating into predictable Afro-Asian chaos. When the little alien parasites get themselves injured by one means or another in the process, where do they run to? To British hospitals for white man's medical treatment! — on the NHS, and paid for by the British taxpayer, of course!

Haringey Councillor Grant's final remark on the affair? "It doesn't bother me. It's much ado about nothing."

Every Briton must ask himself whether this incompetence, clownishness and malevolence do not reflect permanent behavioural tendencies among the Afro-Asian racial groups in our midst. If so, incidents such as those described can only become more frequent as the "great multi-racial experiment" goes forward. The law, order and progress of white society will be replaced with third world-style havoc, unless the whites finally put an end to multi-racialism.

Thatcher intends Ulster sell out

WITH the recent disclosure that Thatcher and Fitzgerald are to hold more top level talks, probably in September, to try and reach a "joint sovereignty solution" to the Northern Ireland problem, British nationalists and Ulster Loyalists are watching closely to see if this heralds the final betrayal on the road to a sell out.

It is no secret that Thatcher would regard a deal on Northern Ireland as a major political feather in her cap which would, almost certainly, ensure her yet another disastrous term in office.

MRS. THATCHER

The Tory party's softly-softly policy in the Province was best typified by the appointment of the wet and woolly Jim Prior as the Secretary of State for Ulster. While he was at the Northern Ireland Office Prior drew up plans for yet another 'power-sharing' scheme, apparently oblivious to the fact that those who are loyal to Great Britain have no desire to 'share' power (or anything else!) with the agents of a foreign state whose hands are indelibly stained with the blood of murdered British troops and civilians.

Prior's reign in Northern Ireland ended in a bizarre finale when Republican rioter Sean Downs was fatally struck by a rubber bullet while he was attempting to attack the RUC. Rather than stand up and say that Downs got what he deserved and that all future IRA rioters would receive a taste of the same, Prior meekly stated that he must take the blame for the incident as he had made the wrong decision in barring Noraid's Martin Galvin, the notorious IRA fund-raiser, from entering the country.

With this abdication of his political responsibility, Prior assured the IRA of their biggest publicity coup in years, and proved himself to be the inept spineless buffoon all nationalists knew he was.

WET

Prior's successor in the Province is Mr. Douglas Hurd, a political lightweight who is a degree more wet than old King Neptune himself. Since taking up office Hurd has been virtually anonymous except when called upon to mouth the usual rhetoric and laughable platitudes about the Tory Party's tough (!) line on terrorism and law and order.

What is, however, most impressive about Mr. Hurd is his obvious pedigree for the office he now holds. When, in the late 70s, the Tory government flew senior members of the IRA to London for "talks" he was one of the junior ministers present, and he has also been party to the "secret" talks in the Anderstown area of Belfast last year, when senior Foreign Office civil servants met with the IRA's 'murder incorporated' of Adams, Morrison, Austin and McGinness.

GUS McLEOD reports

Who better to carry out the government's policy of compromise and appeasement with the Republican killers than a minister who has had the dubious pleasure of supping tea with Gerry Adams and his ilk?

After the Anglo-Irish talks at Chequers last year, it was "leaked" to the press that Thatcher had told Fitzgerald Ulster's future was Britain's business and sent him packing with a flea in his ear. When the smoke finally cleared it emerged that rather than a bawling out from the "Iron Lady" Fitzgerald was party to the usual deception practised by British governments towards the electorate.

On a recent visit to Canada Fitzgerald told a meeting of the National Press Club: "Anglo-Irish talks on the future of Northern Ireland have a 50/50 chance of success," and added: "We have been negotiating these matters with the British Government FOR QUITE SOME TIME" (our emphasis, Ed.). It is hardly conceivable that these statements would come from a man who had been told to mind his own business!

As usual, the only people not consulted are the Loyalist majority in Ulster. As we all know, "majority rule" is only for Black Marxist murderers who clamber onto their hind legs and scream for their supposed "rights", and certainly not for the 592,000 (99 per cent of those who voted) who stated that they wished Northern Ireland to remain a part of the UK in the referendum of March 1973.

FRUITS OF ULSTER TERRORISM

Father holds the coffin of his small child, the victim of IRA butchery. The policies of the Thatcher Government will give the terrorists exactly what they want. Killings of this kind will be seen to pay.

what future Thatcher has in store for them, at the IRA murder factory it is business as usual. To the IRA any deal between Westminster and Dublin is a sure sign that their avowed aim of an all-Ireland Marxist Republic is a step nearer, and that their policy of genocide against the Loyalist people will eventually achieve this aim. Even the cloak of political respectability accorded to the IRA by the British Foreign Office will not deflect it from its murderous course.

ENCOURAGEMENT

At the "Bloody Sunday" remembrance rally in Londonderry this year, the Sinn Fein national organiser ended his propaganda tirade by stating: "We will fight for our cause with words when words are useful and with arms when arms are needed." Obviously Thatcher's "jelly fist" approach has given the Republican scum new heart for the fight.

While we of the BNP have stated on many occasions that the Tory government was planning a sell-out on Ulster, we can take no pleasure from being proven to be correct. We know that the Ulster people will resist any move to bring them closer to Dublin, either by Thatcher's deception or the bombs and bullets of the IRA.

We of the BNP pledge our total support to the people of Northern Ireland and reiterate our manifesto promise that a future Nationalist government will stand by the Loyalist people and, by all means necessary, bring about the total annihilation of the IRA.

ULSTER IS BRITISH FOREVER: NO SURRENDER!

LABOUR REDS WHIP UP BLACK AND ASIAN VIOLENCE

THE LONDON BOROUGH OF NEWHAM witnessed two major outbreaks of racial violence from its "ethnic minority" population during April and May.

Local Asians and Blacks have been whipped into a state of hysteria by claims that Whites have carried out "racist attacks" in the area. Self-styled Asian vigilante groups were formed some time ago to undertake activities against so-called "white racists".

The latest round of coloured immigrant mob violence has developed out of demonstrations in support of these Asians by an immigrant gangster-group, supported by the Labour Party and other extreme left-wing elements, calling itself "The Newham 7 Defence Campaign". This Campaign has the backing of Ken Livingstone, far-left Leader of the GLC, who sent a message of support to its organisers during a weekend in which police were subjected to mob assaults in the course of an "anti-racist" demonstration, taking place under its banners, that turned into a rampage.

The demonstration organised by this vicious red front took place on Saturday 27th April involving an estimated 1,500 imported Asian, black and red thugs. It became violent as the mob was whipped up with anti-police slogans. Forest Gate Police Station was surrounded and besieged as large numbers of Blacks and Asians surged forward to attack officers manning barriers. Police were subjected to a barrage of bottles, sticks and other missiles. There were a number of nasty injuries, including one policeman who was taken to hospital after being hit in the eye by a coin.

FEEBLE RESPONSE

Only 19 arrests were made, despite the level of the violence. Those arrested were gradually allowed to go, after only 12 had been charged with offences, including threatening behaviour, assault, obstruction, possession of an offensive weapon and the use of threatening words. These were released as police "negotiated" with the demo organisers under the pressure of a hundred-strong multi-racial mob surrounding the station and demanding the immediate release of their fellow-rioters.

The feebleness of the authorities was further emphasised by a statement from Scotland Yard expressing anxiety that this violence against their own officers should not be blamed on the red and immigrant organisers who set up the violent confrontation. The statement issued by the Yard whined about the "disappointment" of police at the behaviour of "an unruly element" that besieged and attacked Forest Gate Police Station. No doubt their response was dictated by "Community Relations" considerations whereby every effort is made to pretend that black violence is non-existent.

Evidently encouraged by this gutless establishment and police response, Asian and left-wing groups planned a second demonstration to take place at the same police station the following Saturday. One of the organisers, Unmesh Desai, threatened: "We are planning a much bigger one for next week. People will be coming from all over the country to support us."

LABOUR'S ROLE

In the forefront of this incitement was the local Labour Party, whose organisation in the strongly non-white Holy Trinity Ward issued inflammatory propaganda material accusing police of being "racist" and using

"brute force" against the rioters of the previous Saturday. This was despite the crawling and grovelling of Scotland Yard.

Leaflets published by the ward Labour Party were distributed throughout the area. These bore a black clenched fist and demanded the unconditional right of Blacks and reds to march against "racism" on the streets of Newham, or anywhere else. These leaflets, intended primarily for coloured immigrants, carried the standard Labour Party membership application form.

It would seem that the red scum, much of it composed of idle student and polytechnic lecturer degenerates, and other parasites styling themselves "friends of the workers", together with the increasingly powerful ethnic minority elements, which between them control the Labour Party, now wish to give black mobs the unlimited freedom to attack any Whites at will anywhere, at any time, in the name of "anti-racism". As the reds and traitors of the Labour Party ride to power astride the black mob the genuine British worker ceases to figure in their electoral calculations. He has no interest in this scheme of communist and multi-racialist tyranny. On the contrary he is its first victim.

Nor will any of the established parties at Westminster or in local government lift a little finger in defence of white interests or against this subversion. As a rule the vaunted "defenders of freedom" in the established press and mass-media attempt either to lie in defence of multi-racialist oppression or stay silent.

ORGY OF VIOLENCE

On Saturday 4th May the second demonstration took place, similarly turning into an orgy of violence. On this occasion running mobs pelted police with bricks. The news media deliberately played down this racial violence in what amounted to a conspiracy of silence. Only two Sunday newspapers covered the events in one inch of column-space each on inside pages.

Once again has been witnessed the explosive combination, inevitable under the conditions of Britain's multi-racial society, of red subversion and the presence of masses of Afro-Asians. Once again the impotence, rottenness and treason of Britain's cowardly and corrupt ruling establishment in face of this alien threat stands exposed.

Police take firm hold of rioter. They received little firm backing from their superiors.

We say: Subversion must be ruthlessly smashed and the alien presence in our society eliminated under a new order which uncompromisingly puts the British people first.

WHITES NEED NOT APPLY

Two young men who applied for jobs with Hackney Council in London were turned down because they were white!

Anthony Hughes and Dean Ellis put in for posts as apprentice gardeners but were told that the posts were only open to members of ethnic minorities.

We have not yet heard of the Council being prosecuted under the Race Relations Act.

British Nationalist, though it believes in racial differences, opposes race-hatred. All those who oppose multi-racialism should attack the politicians who promote it, not the immigrants, who are merely its victims.

FINE LEEDS RALLY

New members recruited

New Policy
Statement

THE BRITISH NATIONAL PARTY held a highly successful rally in Leeds on Saturday, June 1st, which was attended by about 160 people, mostly from the North of England but with small contingents coming from as far distant as Plymouth and Glasgow.

The main theme of the rally was the recent football hooliganism that had resulted in 38 deaths in Brussels. One speaker after another underlined the fact that football violence is the product of a sick and decadent society in Britain, with no discipline and little national pride and self-respect.

Rousing speeches on this theme were made by Ian Sloan, David Bruce, Stanley Clayton-Garnett and John Tyndall, with David Owens, also speaking from the chair. The collection raised was just over £140.

The meeting ended in tremendous enthusiasm and a number of new members have been recruited as a result.

The rally took place in perfect order

— after bans had been made on the party using council-owned premises on the ground that disorder would result. A similar ban had been made by the City Council on the party holding an open-air rally in Leeds.

After the rally, which was held in privately-owned premises booked under an assumed name, the members present held a peaceful protest demonstration on the steps of the City Council offices. The local media had all been informed but, in view of the fact that no opposition turned up and no violence therefore resulted, they took little interest. Much less publicity therefore resulted from this activity than from others this year. Nevertheless, members of other Nationalist parties attended the rally and several said afterwards how impressed they were, a number later joining the BNP.

After the rally and demonstration members retired to the local party headquarters in the city, where a short but enjoyable informal social was held.

NF loudmouths make fiasco of unity meeting

SPEARHEAD MAGAZINE, assisted by the British National Party, promoted on May 27th a special meeting in North London dedicated to the theme of Nationalist unity and calling on the separate Nationalist groups to mend their differences and join forces.

As a gesture of reconciliation and to enable the audience to hear each side's point of view, Ian Anderson, present Chairman of the National Front, was invited to speak at the meeting alongside John Tyndall of the BNP. Mr. Anderson made two conditions for his appearance. One was that NF members be allowed to hand out literature at the meeting. This was thought to be something of an impudent demand but it was agreed to so as to give the NF no excuse for non-attendance. The other condition was the Mr. Anderson be permitted to speak after Mr. Tyndall.

To this second demand it was pointed out that the meeting was being promoted by Spearhead magazine, of which Mr. Tyndall is publisher and editor, and the British National Party, of which he is Chairman, that it was customary at any such meetings for Mr. Tyndall to make the final speech and that in the event of Mr. Tyndall or any other BNP representative being invited to speak as a guest at a National Front meeting the NF would be regarded as having the right to determine the order of speakers. Mr. Anderson was at the same time told that should he wish to answer any points made in Mr. Tyndall's speech he would have the facility to do so at question time afterwards.

Mr. Anderson could not accept these conditions and he refused to appear at the meeting.

ABUSE

On the night some of Mr. Anderson's associates turned up at the meeting and utilised the occasion to hurl abuse at the BNP and its Chairman. They then proceeded to distribute a leaflet couched in the same vein and making the lying assertion that it was Mr. Tyndall who had 'vetoed' the joint meeting.

All in all a bit of a fiasco but one from which valuable lessons have been learned.

what we are being brainwashed with is obviously pure lies is decidedly sinister.

It can be argued that the war with Germany, fought to a large extent at Jewish urging, in the long term brought Britain nothing but disasters. Our national economy and our world empire lie in ruins. In no way does the continuous campaign of "Holocaust" propaganda, designed to whip up the emotions of our people in an alien Jewish vendetta against the Germans, the European people closest to ourselves in blood and outlook, help to promote the state of mind in which the measures will be taken to repair this damage. On the contrary, this propaganda has been precisely the means whereby Britons have been psychologically crippled in face of their most potentially lethal contemporary problem — the invasion of their homeland by millions of Afro-Asians. The Jews, who now dominate our mass media, are well aware of the effect of identifying the solution of our ghastly race problems with "Nazism", which is said to equal "the gassing of six million Jews" (Shock! Horror!). They calculate that this will cripple any will to survive among Whites, and set white man against white man in the interests of third parties. And all this in a world where Whites are outnumbered 11 to 1 by the coloured races, which are being whipped into a fever of anti-white hatred the weaker we become. The whole process builds the morale and unity of the Jews themselves, who calculate that they will dominate the resulting non-white morass.

Identifying with the Jews in the 30s and 40s was the source of Britain's present-day problems, and is today a major cause of their continuance. It is now time that we showed the guts to state the truth. The Jewish "Holocaust" is hogwash because it is falsehood and, in any case, nothing to do with the British people. It is dangerous hogwash because it is a calculated anti-Gentile propaganda ploy designed to stir up emotion in favour of aliens.
